Benefit: BRIO two ways is ideal for upholstered with an open base and with a more contemporary style, the presence of two actuators allows to split the movements of the footrest and the backrest, so that they can be moved separately. While operating the actuators, the user can choose between reclining the backrest, moving the footrest or both altogether. This feature results in endless choice options for the relax position. The exposed parts of the structure can be embellished with various finishes upon request of the customer.
