Benefit: PIASTRA wireless Motion is a simple and minimal built-in remote control. Extremely versatile and user-friendly. It's formed by a built-in support and it can be installed inside, outside or on the armrest, both on armchairs and sofas. Combining the handcontrol with an EKO control unit is possible to reach various movements, from sequential to synchronized, in order to satisfy the most refined requests of our clients. The finishing is chromed and the buttons, chromed too, are backlit (blue or white) for a more elegant look. The wireless version is also characterized by an integrated rechargeable battery (through a USB connector type C).

Operation of the led:

- Flashes while charging
- Turns off when the battery is charged
- If it flashes during use, it means a low battery.

The charging cycles of the battery vary depending on the mechanism and the electric kit used (a full charge takes about 3 hours). In case of inactivity, to avoid irreparable damage to the battery, make a full charge within 3 months from the last (full) recharge. Prolonged unusability significantly reduces the life expectancy of the battery causing permanent damage that excludes it from the Motionitalia warranty conditions.
